FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Thomson Reuters Accountant's Resource NETwork (ARNE) Goes Mobile

Forums and other popular social networking features now available in mobile-friendly format

DEXTER, Mich, December 15, 2011—The Tax & Accounting business of Thomson Reuters today announced a mobile version of ARNE, its online community exclusively for tax and accounting professionals. Available now for both Apple® iOS and Android™ devices, ARNE Mobile is accessible on smartphones, tablets, and other mobile devices.

The initial release of ARNE Mobile includes a variety of the most popular features from the ARNE community forums, including the ability to:

- Browse and comment on the most recent ARNE forum activity
- Start a new discussion
- Mark posts as read
- Search the forum for a particular thread

Future versions of ARNE Mobile will include a wider variety of features from the ARNE online community, including access to blogs, articles, and other content.

“The mobile web is having a profound impact on the profession, from helping practitioners be more efficient to un-tethering staff from the office and driving higher levels of client service,” said Scott Fleszar, vice president, Strategic Marketing, Tax & Accounting, Thomson Reuters. “ARNE Mobile is our latest mobile app, providing practitioners with on-the-go access to the ARNE online community.”

The ARNE Mobile app is downloadable at no cost from the Android Market® and the Apple App Store. Tax and accounting professionals can create an ARNE account and get more information on ARNE and ARNE Mobile at CS.ThomsonReuters.com/ARNE.

A free and full-featured community created exclusively for tax and accounting professionals to solve problems, share ideas, and learn from each other, ARNE serves over 50,000 users. The community is available to accounting professionals who use or have interest in Thomson Reuters' line of tax and accounting software and information services. More information about the ARNE Community, and about the CS Professional Suite® and Enterprise Suite™ software solutions, is available at CS.ThomsonReuters.com.
